

Robert LaCaze

Head of Oncology, Pharmaceuticals Division, Bayer

Robert LaCaze is an accomplished and recognized oncology leader with focus on driving innovation and value for patients. Robert's success is driven by his passion for Oncology and 30 years of bio-pharmaceutical experience mainly in specialty areas like Oncology. Currently as the Executive Vice President and Head of the Oncology Strategic Business Unit at Bayer, Robert oversees the Oncology franchise of Bayer AG globally. He is also a member of the Pharmaceutical Executive Committee of Bayer AG. Before joining Bayer in 2015 as Senior Vice President, Head of Oncology, Robert was the Senior Vice President, Global Oncology at Bristol-Myers Squibb and co-led the Oncology Disease Strategy team with direct responsibility to set and implement the vision, and strategy for the Oncology Franchise at Bristol-Myers Squibb, including, Immuno-Oncology (I-O). Robert currently serves on the Louisiana Tech College of Business Administration Advisory Board and is a member of AACR and BioNJ.