Precision Breeding Efforts

From Selecting the Best to Designing the Best

As our knowledge of genetics has increased, plant scientists have strategically bred the best plants for specific characteristics. This knowledge has enabled us to move from only selecting the best plants based on random outcomes to designing the best plants that benefit growers, consumers and our environment.

- Selective Plant Breeding
- Genetic Variation
- Molecular Breeding Technology
- The Future of Plant Breeding