Importance of patient organizations for Bayer Austria

Patient organizations have in-depth knowledge of how patients experience their illness and what needs they have in coping with it; they are committed to their interests in an exemplary manner. As a manufacturer of pharmaceutical products, we see it as our duty to cure diseases, alleviate suffering and improve the quality of life for patients. The focus is on the patient. In order to achieve this goal, a respectful and trusting dialogue and transparent cooperation on a partnership level in dealing with patient organizations and their relatives are indispensable.

Bayer in Austria works with patient groups and patient organizations in a wide variety of therapeutic areas.

We regard such cooperation as an important part of our work in order to better understand the needs of those affected, while maintaining the neutrality and independence of the patient organizations. The focus is on mutual information and the exchange of experiences.

Code of cooperation with patient organizations

Neutrality and independence

Bayer Austria respects the neutrality and independence of patient organizations and that their professional and political work is exclusively geared to the needs and interests of disabled and sick people and their relatives.

Separation

When working with patient organizations, Bayer Austria ensures a clear separation between information or recommendations from these organizations on the one hand and information from the company on the other. Bayer representatives or employees are not allowed to perform any functions in patient organizations unless as members of scientific advisory boards.

Transparency

Bayer Austria ensures that cooperation with patient organizations is transparent and open and informs the public about the type and scope of its cooperation.

Advertising bans

Bayer Austria ensures that when working with patient organizations, no recommendations are made for individual prescription drugs or groups of drugs.
